Dear People,

This letter concerns Lisa Panasuk. I have known her family for many years. Her mother and father were church members under my care before they were married and during the early years of their marriage. I have a great deal of respect for the Panasuks.

Lisa is gifted in many areas. One of her specialties is child evangelism. She has been involved in a number of overseas mission trips ministering to children. Lisa has made presentations at Upper Columbia Conference Child Evangelism workshops. She is active in her local church and is a member of ASI. She has taught a number of children's lessons at national ASI conventions and will be in charge of the children's program at this year's national convention.

I have reviewed the materials that Lisa has prepared to place evangelistic truths in the minds and hearts of children and have found them to be excellent. Lisa depicts the heart of each message in dramatic graphics which are simple and Christ centered. She adapts the materials to the level of the child and uses educational aids that are attractive to children. I would gladly recommend her for any child evangelism related activity in the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Sincerely,

James R. Kilmer, Ph.D. Religious Education
